TEN THOUSAND PAY TRIBUTE TO LATE CARDINAL

New York, Sept. 24.—Ten thousand persons, the greatest crowd ever gathered in the edifice, were in St. Patrick's Cathedral today as final funeral services were held for Cardinal Farley, who died last week at his summer home near here.

Enthroned during the services were three Cardinals and the apostolic delegate, Archbishop Bonzano from Washington. Other dignitaries of the Catholic Church were present in great numbers. The Cardinals present were Gibbons, Baltimore; O'Connell, Boston and Begin, Quebec.

Archbishops present, in addition to the Papal delegate, were Glennon, St. Louis; Dougherty, Philadelphia; Shaw, New Orleans; Moeller, Cincinnati; Martin, Pittsburgh; Cordova, Yucatan and Bruchesi, Montreal.

Bishops present were McDonnell, Brooklyn; Byrne, Nashville; Hoban, Scranton; Morahan, Wilmington, Del.; O'Conner, Newark; Muldoon, Rockford, Ill.; Hickey, Rochester, N. Y.; Feehan, Fall River, Mass.; Farrelly, Cleveland; Grimes, Syracuse; Schrems, Toledo; Conroy, Ogdensburg, N. Y.; McCort, Philadelphia; Currier, Hetalomia, N. Y.; Hayes, Bishop in ordinary for the army and navy and auxiliary bishop of New York; Russell, Charleston, S. C., and Walsh, Trenton, N. J.

The consecrated mourners marched from the Cardinal's home to the cathedral and were accompanied by many friends of the late cardinal. At the church the final ceremony, a solemn high requiem mass, was conducted by Archbishop Bonzano. The burial oration was delivered by Bishop Hickey, of Rochester.

After these final services the body of the cardinal was placed beside those of Cardinal McCloskey and Archbishops Hughes and Corrigan, in the crypt under the central altar of the church. During the services a number of messages from high officials was read, among them one from President Wilson and from Pope Benedict.

BIG EVENTS ARE BREWING IN THE WORLD WAR

Paris, Sept. 24.—The most colossal battle of all time is now raging, the battle line stretching from New York to the other side of the Banks of the Jordan.

Perhaps the intensity is varying but it will not stop until the boche are beaten everywhere.

The allies hold the whip hand and big events seem brewing for the comparatively near future.

Still every allied officer and man today is most emphatic that there never was a time when the allies needed more to keep their eyes wide open, and never more need to be strong, than now.

Critics disagree on minor points but are in accord regarding them—that a decisive moment is approaching. They do not mean that this will be tomorrow, next week, or next month; but certainly in 1919, they can see an allied victory, providing the allies do not spare their utmost effort, afloat and ashore, fighters and civilians alike.

Indications point toward a grand finale. The Americans, French and British are pinning the Prussians tighter and tighter against the Hindenburg wall with mightier efforts in perspective. The U-boats are defeated on the seas; General March announcing that one and three quarters millions of Americans are now in France and Italy.

The Balkans already are aflame again, while General Allenby's cavalry gallops the Turks off the field of Armageddon.

YOU'RE RIGHT, BILL THEY HAVE HEAVY FIGHTING AHEAD

Amsterdam, Sept. 24.—The Kaiser, addressing Austrian officers at Briey, while visiting the Alsace-Lorraine front Sunday, expressed his confidence that they would give the Americans "the right answer at the right moment."

"You have come to fight our battles as good comrades," he said. "You know, perhaps, that we have heavy fighting before us. You know who are before you. The Americans have promised France that they would give her Alsace-Lorraine, which France alone cannot conquer."

"The Americans also wish to add big deeds to their big words. With the help of my troops, you will give them the right answer, at the right moment."

The Kaiser distributed 400 Iron crosses and addressed Austrian, German, British and French wounded in their respective languages.

MANY BULGARIANS CAPTURED AND THE TURKS ARE IN TRAP

London, Sept. 24.—Allied successes in Macedonia and Palestine continue to grow. Control of Siberia also is being rapidly completed by the allies.

The operations in the Balkans are taking on the aspect of a major defeat for the Bulgarians. Their armies in southern Serbia and northeastern Greece have been virtually split by cutting of the Uskub-Salonika and Gradska-Prilip railways. The allies are advancing in the whole region between Monastir and Lake Doiran and the original front of about 75 miles has been stretched to nearly 100 miles by the growth of the big wedge being driven northward. Through the seizure of Kalyani, allied troops are now only six miles southeast of the important city of Prilip, which is one of their immediate objectives. To the eastward they have penetrated much farther north and are paralleling the Vardar from the Doiran region to its junction with the Cerna. West of Doiran, the allies are within reach of Bogdane, six miles west and north of the village of Doiran, while their left wing has passed Mogila, five miles north of Monastir.

Official reports of prisoners and guns to date are lacking, but it is unofficially stated that the Serbians alone have taken nearly 10,000 Bulgarians and 120 guns. British, French, Greek, Italian and Czecho-Slovak troops are participating in the offensive.

The latest official announcement that Gen. Allenby's armies have taken more than 25,000 Turkish prisoners in Palestine leads to the belief that thousands more will be added to this haul. It is supposed that between 40,000 and 50,000 Turks were trapped between the Jordan and the Mediterranean when British and Indian cavalry headed off the retreat northward by seizing the line through Nazareth to the sea of Galilee. After the Arabs crossed the last avenue of escape across the Jordan, it became a matter of merely hunting down those Turks remaining within the trap.

Semi-official reports have been received here that Japanese troops have occupied Blagoveshchensk, on the Amur river, 500 miles northwest of Vladivostok. Two thousand Austro-Germans were captured in this operation. They surrendered in Chinese territory, just across the river from the captured Nerchinsk, 500 miles west of Blagoveshchensk, less than 300 miles east of Lake Balkal.

French troops, south of St. Quentin have reached the west bank of the Oise, on the three mile front between Vendeuil and Travecy. Farther northward, the British are still battering away at the Hindenburg defenses between Cambrai and St. Quentin.

Even his neutrality was an assumed role, as he is now striving to keep up the role. I do not say he is insincere, but there are cases in American history in which America herself violated the fourteen points he formulates.

"Proof that the entente fears the effects of the proposal on the Pacific, is shown by the speed with which Premier Clemenceau and Secretary Balfour spoke. It would serve no purpose to reply to their speeches."

"There was complete agreement between Germany and Austria-Hungary in regard to the dispatch of the note."

"The Hindenburg line will hold, but we must neglect nothing that will bring peace nearer."

"I feel no surprise at the entente reception of the Austrian proposal which was an effort to bring out things clearly, which is occasionally necessary," Burian said.

"The rapidity with which President Wilson replied is remarkable. He clearly wanted to anticipate the other members of the entente. He always wanted to be arbiter of the world."

ALL QUIET EXCEPT THE ARTILLERY ON THE WOEVRE FRONT

BY FRED S. FERGUSON

With the Americans on the Metz Front, Sept. 24.—Aside from artillery bombardment of important German centers, with counter-shelling of American positions, the Woevre front is quiet.

An American raid on the left center yesterday netted some prisoners. The enemy laid down a barrage on the adjoining sectors, but their infantry failed to come over to face our counter-fire.

Near St. Hilaire another American raid resulted in the taking of 146 prisoners.

Scarcely an airplane or balloon was seen in the sky all day yesterday, the rain stopping aerial activity. The entire front is largely mud locked. An instance of the effectiveness of the American Indians in certain lines of work is illustrated in the report from a certain division. Whenever the commander wants information he sends out an Indian, who invariably returns with it. The Indian is unable to reckon distance except by hours. Being asked how far he went into the German lines, he says: "Three hours there, three hours back."

The Indian is credited with being able to distinguish boche camouflage trees from real ones. The Germans move sets of miniature trees to conform with certain movements, the movable trees concealing machine gun nests and observation posts. But they are unable to deceive him and he spots them every time.

In the latter strip the Germans still retain an enormous advantage however, as the dry bed of the canal stretches for three miles there.

But recent demonstrations of what tanks and instantaneous fuse shells are able to do to ordinary defenses, argue against impregnability of any lines.

The Germans in this section have the opportunity to resume their favorite trench warfare and may hope to revitalize, or rather rediscipline their demoralized forces into making a stand.

HUN AMBASSADOR RESIGNS

Amsterdam, Sept. 24.—Dr. Carl Von Helfferich, who succeeded the late Count Von Mirbach as German ambassador to Russia, has resigned, according to information obtained here today.

TRENCH WARFARE MAY BE RESUMED ON BRITISH FRONT

With the British Armies in France, Sept. 24.—The British front seems about to become the scene of trench warfare again.

If the British succeed in their general advance, it will reflect greater credit than any of their remarkable successes in the past several weeks. They are now fairly up against the Hindenburg line from St. Quentin to beyond Cambrai and, while the line itself is pierced on the front before Cambrai there is yet such a wilderness of defense barring their path as only the methodical, patient, machine-like Huns are capable of constructing.

These mazes are from a mile to two miles deep. Part of the way then is a canal 70 feet wide and probably 50 feet deep in some places, with deep spread trenches before and behind it. If this machine-like barricade could save him, Von Hindenburg should feel safe, but the Germans unquestionably regard the situation nervously with their first line from Havincourt to Moeuvres cracked, and with the Australians perched on a ridge where the German outposts system lies, between Bellecourt and Bellenglise.

In the latter strip the Germans still retain an enormous advantage however, as the dry bed of the canal stretches for three miles there.

But recent demonstrations of what tanks and instantaneous fuse shells are able to do to ordinary defenses, argue against impregnability of any lines.

The Germans in this section have the opportunity to resume their favorite trench warfare and may hope to revitalize, or rather rediscipline their demoralized forces into making a stand.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF PACKING INDUSTRY AFTER WAR ADVOCATED

BY L. C. MARTIN.

Washington, Sept. 24.—In seeking a way to relieve the American people from the high cost of living, congress has practically abandoned the idea of putting the meat packing business under government control while the war lasts.

Many congressional students of the high cost of living, problem have vigorously advocated government operation of the meat business as an essential first step. But they agree that to add this enterprise to the multitude of huge new tasks Uncle Sam has undertaken since the war began, might defeat the very purpose they have in mind. While they have some what reluctantly accepted this view, they have not and will not relinquish their adherence to the principle of government control of stock yards and packing houses as a necessary part of the permanent solution of the cost of living problem here. They have simply postponed accomplishment ment of this reform, determined to put it through after the war.

It is deemed unlikely that President Wilson will recommend legislation for government control of either stock yards or packing houses now, as a result of his study of the federal trade commission's recommendations. The president already has the power to take over either the stock yards or the packing houses, or both, in a war emergency if this becomes necessary.

While the senate agricultural committee is ostensibly conducting hearings on the Thompson resolution for government control of the meat industry, it is unlikely that the resolution will be brought to a vote this season.

The real purpose of the investigation is to find out whether the packers have been white-washing themselves in the eyes of the public by attacking the federal trade commission, through chamber of commerce of the United States. In an effort to get further light on this, the committee today is to hear Harry A. Wheeler, president of the chamber.

ONE GOOD PUNCH COULD PUT AUSTRIA OUT OF THE WAR

New York, Sept. 24.—Ten divisions of American troops in Italy could win the war by Christian, Charles Edward Russell, who has just returned from Italy, declared today in an interview with the United Press.

Russell was a member of the social-democratic league mission which went abroad to study war conditions. His information, he said, was derived from careful investigation and the best official authorities.

Americans at home, Russell declared, should be prepared to make some very real sacrifices, in cutting down on light, heat and automobiling to relieve Italy's coal famine and keep her at full strength this winter.

"If there were ten divisions of American soldiers in Italy now the war could be ended by Christmas or before," he said. "This is not a rash assertion of a civilian that has seen only a few battle-fronts, but it is the deliberate judgment of the best military observers that have carefully studied the exact situation in Italy."

"Even if the Americans never fired a shot on the battle line nor never went out of a training camp, the effect of their mere presence in Italy would be tremendous that in all probability the Italians would break the Austrian line and inflict a blow that would practically put Austria out of business."

"Austria according to the best obtainable information, is not far from collapsing any way, and with one swift punch, such as the Italians would give her if they were adequately supported and encouraged, would leave Germany in the impossible position of carrying on the war alone. This in the judgment of these military authorities would be by far the quickest, surest and least expensive way to end the war."

"Whether that is right or wrong, at least it is perfectly apparent that Italy should have as she deserves, most practical support from the United States."

"We ought to be able to spare, for Italy, enough coal to enable her to get through the winter. Already, many of her munition works are closing down, because of the lack of fuel."

"It would be infinitely better, for instance, for us to do as they do in England, that is to say, warm only one room instead of the entire house; cut out the pleasure riding, cut out every new electrical sign, cut out the hot water, rather than allow an ally so gallant and so important to be weakened to a point vital to our success."

SOME IMPORTANT SUGGESTIONS BY OHIO'S BOOK-KEEPER.

We are in receipt of the annual report of A. V. Donahey, Auditor of the State of Ohio, for the fiscal year ending, June 30, 1918. Mr. Donahey is the State bookkeeper, and as a consequence knows more about the state finances than anybody else. For this reason he is able to tell the people just how much money they pay in the way of taxes and how this money is spent. If some of the money is spent injudiciously, it is within his province to tell that, and as the report is addressed to the Governor and the General Assembly of the State, if in his opinion alteration of the laws would be for the betterment of the State finances and consequently to the interest of the people, it is his duty to make such suggestions to the State Legislature. The Ohio Legislature meets in January, 1919, for its regular session, when will develop upon it the necessity of making appropriations to conduct the state government for the biennium beginning July 1, 1919, and ending June 30, 1921.

The most important questions of finance demanding solution at the hands of the General Assembly, completely overshadowing all others, are: 1st. How can financial aid be given the counties, cities and schools of Ohio, that actually need assistance, without destroying the limitations of the Smith one per cent law? 2nd. If the State prohibition constitutional amendment be ratified at the November election, the state and its subdivisions will lose nearly seven millions of revenue annually derived from the traffic in intoxicating liquors. By what form of taxation shall the loss be met?

Mr. Donahey having served as State auditor for nearly six years suggests the following change in the State's fiscal policy to overcome the first of the above named problems. For the last fiscal year the State received from licenses from automobiles and other motor vehicles a total of $2,160,360.96. This sum is credited to the Highway department, and the law requires that it shall be used in the maintenance of roads. But he shows that it is not needed, and proposes a change in the law that this money be returned to the cities, villages and townships where vehicles are owned. This would furnish the cities and villages of Ohio two million dollars of new revenue annually.

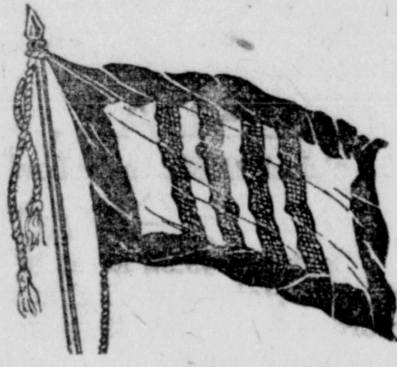

He says: "This change will not deprive the Highway Department of needed revenue nor diminish state aid for road construction throughout Ohio. The revenue now received by the Highway Department from the state direct levy of three-tenths of one mill, which the past year amounted to $2,432,503.66, are ample for all requirements and furnish all the money the department can intelligently spend. At the close of business on June 30, 1918, there was a cash balance in the Highway Fund of, $4,843,368.38. I am of the firm belief that Ohio would have more miles of improved road if the Highway Department had less money to spend. Building brick roads at a cost of from $30,000.00 to $40,000.00 per mile, in rural communities, should be abandoned in Ohio. The expenditure of a much smaller sum will improve a greater mileage of ordinary traffic roads if stone, gravel and other local materials are used where road-building material of suitable quality is available. Counties and townships with small duplicates have been unable to meet their proportion from taxation, and as a result of building roads, costing often in excess of $20,000.00 per mile, these taxing districts have buried themselves under bond issues, totaling in the state for road purposes, over fifty million dollars."

As to the second important financial problem mentioned above, the loss of revenue of nearly six million dollars, if the State adopts prohibition at the November election. Mr. Donahey suggests an inheritance tax, such as exists in forty of the forty-eight states of the Union, and gives a schedule of such an one that would produce in the State about eight millions of dollars. Mr. Donahey, though, takes time by the forelock and says the lawmakers and tax payers should study the inheritance tax proposal carefully for unquestionably national prohibition, under the amendment awaiting action by the General Assembly, will be ratified by the required number of states in a very few years, and then we will be compelled to seek additional revenues from other sources than saloons.

Mr. Donahey adds: "If an inheritance tax law be passed, the General Assembly should enact a law requiring that all deeds conveying real estate shall show the actual consideration involved in the transaction and failure to do so should be punished by fine or imprisonment. The day of that foolish camouflage "One dollar and other considerations" should end in Ohio."

X. H. S. VICTORIOUS IN ITS FIRST GAME

The X. H. S. football team journeyed to Greenfield Saturday and played McLean High School.

This was the first game of the season and was played as a practice game.

The team played as they left off last year, every man being a regular from last year. Greenfield was completely out-classed, and did not have a chance for victory.

Stephens at quarter played a fine game and besides keeping the opponents guessing, he made several good gains. Captain Currie at full back could always be depended on and kicked 4 goals from touchdowns. Riddell and Owens also showed up well on the line. Tullis and Hartssock also made gains for the Blue and White.

Coach Ferris expresses himself as being well pleased with the showing made and predicts a victory over Washington next Saturday.

"THE WIFE"

BY JANE PHELPS

MR. MANDEL'S KNOWLEDGE OF BRIAN PUZZLES RUTH.

CHAPTER I.

Suddenly Ruth stood still. How did Arthur Mandel know Brian? She was sure they never had met, because she had asked Brian to call at the shop for her and to meet her employer, and he had refused, saying he didn't want to know him, not even to know what he looked like.

That she herself had told Mandel, as plainly as if she had spoken, that it was her husband they saw the day in Washington Square, she had no idea. And that Mandel had taken pains to verify his suspicions, she would scarcely have believed. Why should he?

Ruth had no slightest idea that Arthur Mandel was becoming intensely interested in her. Community of interest, fondness for the same things, are good groundwork for closer relations. This she did not realize. And when added is the idea that the husband is enamored of another woman, what more natural than to try to make an impression if one cares enough—and Arthur Mandel was beginning to care a great deal for Ruth Hackett.

From the day he had seen Brian Hackett and Mollie King together, a feeling that sometime he might win Ruth for himself had possessed Arthur Mandel. But he was wise enough to realize Ruth's innate purity, and to understand that he might lose her altogether—even from the shop—if he gave his feeling for her expression.

That Mollie, artist and bohemian, had offered to help Brian pass the time because she pitied him for having married Ruth, was something Mandel could of course know nothing of, or even conceive. Neither did he stop to consider what the attitude of most people would be toward Brian—that they would mostly say: "What can anyone expect? His wife goes off and leaves him alone. Why shouldn't he enjoy himself with another woman?"

A man's conscience is gullible. It is very elastic, especially as regards his love affairs. Brian's conscience was much like that of the majority of men. He soothed it by blaming Ruth. While Mandel did not attempt to intrigue himself that he was not going to do all he could to win Ruth, he also blamed Brian for neglecting her.

Ruth thought often of Mandel's kindness to her. There was a sense of comfort when she thought of him. He had given her congenial work to do, instead of slavery—as she called it—she had been doing for Brian. He had let her feel her worth to him in a business way, so that she felt she earned not what he gave her, but more. He had accurately appraised her abilities; and then had trusted her to make good.

Naturally, Ruth was flattered when she thought of these things. How happy she would have been could she have discussed them with Brian! But as yet he had shown no slightest interest in her work—as work. Perhaps later she would be able to get him to view it in something like the manner in which she did—as a profession; and an artistic one of which he should be proud.

But now his relations with Mollie King, his extravagance in going to those expensive places, were uppermost in her mind.

As regarded money, Ruth was a strange contradiction. Nothing was extravagant if you had the money; but debt! That to her was a horror. She had known only one person who had been the kind who runs in debt, and he had been held up to her as an example. One of her aunt's neighbors had such a husband, and they had lost their home, everything they owned, and the wife had died—people said of a broken heart, because of it.

No, that she would ever die of a broken heart from the same cause, no, she could take care of herself. But people had talked so terribly about old Mr. Lovelace. Had called him such awful names. And she remembered, with a shudder, that she had read a list of his creditors, and how much he owed them, in the county paper.

Perhaps Brian had made some extra money! That would explain it all. She would ask him, the very first thing, when she got home.

The afternoon wore away. Ruth was very busy and she forgot Brian for the time. But as soon as she reached home it all returned to her.

Mollie—the restaurants—everything. She waited until they had finished dinner, then said: "Now tell me where you dined while I was away! Did you discover any new places?"

"Yes, Mollie guided me to a little restaurant down town. A sixty cent dinner."

"Cheap enough. Where else did you go?"

"Oh, I ran around. I didn't go twice to the same place. It doesn't cost any more, and is more interesting."

"Did you take Miss King to these other places?" it was out. Ruth avoided looking at him when she asked the question, but glanced up when he hesitated to answer, and caught the flush that swept his face.

"Yes! I told you I wouldn't eat alone!"

Tomorrow—Brian Claims the Right To Take Mollie Out in Ruth's Absence.

DON'T BE A MAN WHO DID NOT BUY A LIBERTY BOND

Few of us appreciated just all it meant when we watched the rookie Sammies march down to the depots on their way to the concentration camps a few months back. Some of us, refusing to believe that the war would last until they reached the front, were inclined to smile at all the fuss that was made then. Some others, who had tasted in the bygone years of the sorrows of conflict, were deeply impressed. And still some others, as yet untouched by the call to arms, were mildly indifferent.

But now all of us are coming to realize what it really means. Each succeeding casualty list carries some familiar name, some one we knew or whose people we know, or whose locality spreads out before us like a picture when we read his name.

The gaunt finger of affliction may point to most of us any day.

It seems a long road to the finish at this time. We are only beginning to taste the bitter draught which England, France, Serbia, Romania, Belgium, France and a dozen other countries participating in the fight have been drinking for the last four years. And it may yet be for us to drink deeply too.

But sooner or later there can be but one end, and Johnnie will come marching home triumphantly. World freedom will be saved, our own future insured.

And when that happens all of us will be down along the line of march, our hats off, our hearts full to overflowing, our choked voices doing their very best to cheer the conquering heroes. It will be one of the big events in our lives.

But what of the man who didn't buy a bond. God help him, where will he come in? Don't be THAT MAN! Get ready to buy your bond. Liberty Loan, Sept. 28-Oct. 19.

TOTAL OF $38,942.97 IN STAMPS PURCHASED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

County Supt. F. M. Reynolds reports that the children of the Greene County School System, outside of Xenia, have sold $38,942.97 worth of Thrift and War Savings Stamps. Most of this is owned by the children themselves.

There are now enrolled in the schools of the county 3,600 children. This makes a per capita of $10.80 for each child enrolled. James Brown has sent in the largest per capita sales. Ross township second grade, Ostrum, third with $49.09, 31.08 and $36.53 respectively. Ross township was the first whole township in the county to reach 100 per cent efficiency, that is, each pupil in the township owns a card with some stamps in it. Several individual schools have reached the 100 per cent efficiency as the Ostrum high school, the College Corner school in Silvercreek township, the Jenkins in New Jasper, the Upper room at Union in Xenia township and the Fawcett in Sugar Creek township.

A more hearty co-operation on the part of the parents is solicited in this patriotic work. It is for the common good. Let all help Greene county reach her quota by January 1, the time this Thrift and War Savings Stamp sale closes. Greene county's quota is twenty dollars per person in the county. The entire population of the county is approximately thirty thousand and thirty thousand times twenty dollars is six hundred thousand dollars, the amount assessed on our county.

O. S. AND S. O. HOME

Ex pupils should exercise care in the keeping of their discharge papers, etc., of the Home. Requests for duplicate copies are reaching the Home in large numbers, daily, now, particularly from those who are of the draft age.

The heaviest rainfall of the season was recorded here by the Home weather observer Monday. The official rain gauge showed that 2.14 inches of water had fallen between Sunday evening at 4 o'clock and Monday evening at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Elmer Piper, matron of Cottage 3, received a telegram from her brother, of Morenci, Ohio, last Friday morning, stating the death of his youngest son. She left Friday so as to be at home for the funeral which was held Saturday morning.

The big banana tree at the greenhouse was reduced to infancy in height this week, the tree having grown so tall as to endanger the glass roof. The tree yielded a fine bunch of bananas the past season.

Miss Leona Hitesman, who has been a matron of the Home for the last seven years, resigned her position and left for Harveysburg, Wayne County, Ohio, Thursday, where she will accept a position as principal of Wayne high schools. Miss Hitesman also taught in the Home schools several years ago.

Walter Redman, who has had charge of the butchering department for the past four months, resigned his position, to take effect last Sunday. Dairyman Andrew Liming says the dairy herd of 40 cows are producing 115 gallons of milk daily. 110 gallons are delivered to the main building and 5 to the hospital.

A TWICE-TOLD TALE

One of interest to Our Readers.

Good news bears repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. The following experience of a Xenia man is confirmed after two years.

James H. Blackburn, 216 N. West St., Xenia, says: "A cold settled on my kidneys and I had awful pains in my back. These pains started just over my kidneys and extended to my hips and legs and all through the small of my back. A friend told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box. Doan's were just what I needed. They strengthened my kidneys and drove out that trouble in my back." Statement given January 8, 1915.

LASTING RESULTS.
On August 2, 1917, Mr. Blackburn said: "Doan's Kidney Pills surely did all I said for them in the statement I gave in 1915. I am glad to say the cure Doan's gave me has lasted."

SOME IMPORTANT SUGGESTIONS BY OHIO'S BOOK-KEEPER.

We are in receipt of the annual report of A. V. Donahey, Auditor of the State of Ohio, for the fiscal year ending, June 30, 1918. Mr. Donahey is the State bookkeeper, and as a consequence knows more about the state finances than anybody else. For this reason he is able to tell the people just how much money they pay in the way of taxes and how this money is spent. If some of the money is spent injudiciously, it is within his province to tell that, and as the report is addressed to the Governor and the General Assembly of the State, if in his opinion alteration of the laws would be for the betterment of the State finances and consequently to the interest of the people, it is his duty to make such suggestions to the State Legislature. The Ohio Legislature meets in January, 1919, for its regular session, when will devolve upon it the necessity of making appropriations to conduct the state government for the biennium beginning July 1, 1919, and ending June 30, 1921.

The most important questions of finance demanding solution at the hands of the General Assembly, completely overshadowing all others, are: 1st. How can financial aid be given the counties, cities and schools of Ohio, that actually need assistance, without destroying the limitations of the Smith one per cent law? 2nd. If the State prohibition constitutional amendment be ratified at the November election, the state and its subdivisions will lose nearly seven millions of revenue annually derived from the traffic in intoxicating liquors. By what form of taxation shall the loss be met?

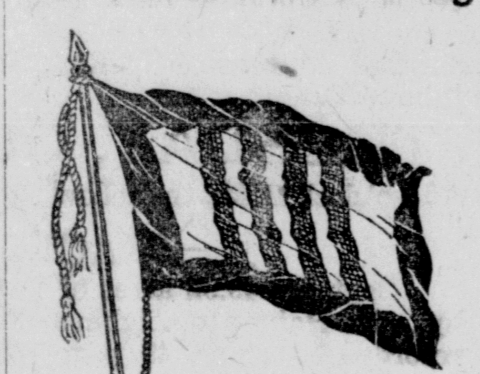

Mr. Donahey having served as State auditor for nearly six years suggests the following change in the State's fiscal policy to overcome the first of the above named problems. For the last fiscal year the State received from licenses from automobiles and other motor vehicles a total of $2,160,360.96. This sum is credited to the Highway department, and the law requires that it shall be used in the maintenance of roads. But he shows that it is not needed, and proposes a change in the law that this money be returned to the cities, villages and townships where vehicles are owned. This would furnish the cities and villages of Ohio two million dollars of new revenue annually.

He says: "This change will not deprive the Highway Department of needed revenue nor diminish state aid for road construction throughout Ohio. The revenue now received by the Highway Department from the state direct levy of three-tenths of one mill, which the past year amounted to $2,432,503.66, are ample for all requirements and furnish all the money the department can intelligently spend. At the close of business on June 30, 1918, there was a cash balance in the Highway Fund of $4,843,968.38. I am of the firm belief that Ohio would have more miles of improved road if the Highway Department had less money to spend. Building brick roads at a cost of from $30,000.00 to $40,000.00 per mile, in rural communities, should be abandoned in Ohio. The expenditure of a much smaller sum will improve a greater mileage of ordinary traffic roads if stone, gravel and other local materials are used where road-building material of suitable quality is available. Counties and townships with small duplicates have been unable to meet their proportion from taxation, and as a result of building roads, costing often in excess of $20,000.00 per mile, these taxing districts have buried themselves under bond issues, totaling in the state for road purposes, over fifty million dollars."

As to the second important financial problem mentioned above, the loss of revenue of nearly six million dollars, if the State adopts prohibition at the November election. Mr. Donahey suggests an inheritance tax, such as exists in forty of the forty-eight states of the Union, and gives a schedule of such an one that would produce in the State about eight millions of dollars. Mr. Donahey, though, takes time by the forelock and says the lawmakers and tax payers should study the inheritance tax proposal carefully for unquestionably national prohibition, under the amendment awaiting action by the General Assembly, will be ratified by the required number of states in a very few years, and then we will be compelled to seek additional revenues from other sources than saloons.

Mr. Donahey adds: "If an inheritance tax law be passed, the General Assembly should enact a law requiring that all deeds conveying real estate shall show the actual consideration involved in the transaction and failure to do so should be punished by fine or imprisonment. The day of that foolish camouflage "One dollar and other considerations" should end in Ohio."

YOUNG COUPLE IS SECRETLY MARRIED IN KENTUCKY LAST WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Luck (Bertha Dice), are just announcing to their friends, the fact that they were married in Kentucky a week ago last Saturday.

X. H. S. VICTORIOUS IN ITS FIRST GAME

The X. H. S. football team journeyed to Greenfield Saturday and played McLean High School.

This was the first game of the season and was played as a practice game.

The team played as they left off last year, every man being a regular from last year. Greenfield was completely out-classed, and did not have a chance for victory.

Stephens at quarter played a fine game and besides keeping the opponents guessing, he made several good gains. Captain Currie at the full could always be depended on and kicked 4 goals from touchdowns. Riddell and Owens also showed up well on the line. Tullis and Hartsock also made gains for the Blue and White.

Coach Ferris expresses himself as being well pleased with the showing made and predicts a victory over Washington next Saturday.

"THE WIFE"

BY JANE PHELPS

MR. MANDEL'S KNOWLEDGE OF BRIAN PUZZLES RUTH.

CHAPTER I.

Suddenly Ruth stood still. How did Arthur Mandel know Brian? She was sure they never had met, because she had asked Brian to call at the shop for her and to meet her employer, and he had refused, saying he didn't want to know him, not even to know what he looked like.

That she herself had told Mandel, as plainly as if she had spoken, that it was her husband they saw the day in Washington Square, she had no idea. And that Mandel had taken pains to verify his suspicions, she would scarcely have believed. Why should he?

Ruth had no slightest idea that Arthur Mandel was becoming intensely interested in her. Community of interest, fondness for the same things, are good groundwork for closer relations. This she did not realize. And when added is the idea that the husband is enamored of another woman, what more natural than to try to make an impression if one cares enough—and Arthur Mandel was beginning to care a great deal for Ruth Hackett.

From the day he had seen Brian Hackett and Mollie King together, a feeling that sometime he might win Ruth for himself had possessed Arthur Mandel. But he was wise enough to realize Ruth's innate purity, and to understand that he might lose her altogether—even from the shop—if he gave his feeling for her expression.

That Mollie, artist and bohemian, had offered to help Brian pass the time because she pitied him for having married Ruth, was something Mandel could not of course know nothing of, or even conceive. Neither did he stop to consider what the attitude of most people would be toward Brian—that they would mostly say:

"What can anyone expect? His wife goes off and leaves him alone. Why shouldn't he enjoy himself with another woman?"

A man's conscience is gullible. It is very elastic, especially as regards his love affairs. Brian's conscience was much like that of the majority of men. He soothed it by blaming Ruth. While Mandel did not attempt to intrigue himself that he was not going to do all he could to win Ruth, he also blamed Brian for neglecting her.

Ruth thought often of Mandel's kindness to her. There was a sense of comfort when she thought of him. He had given her congenial work to do, instead of slavery—as she called it—she had been doing for Brian. He had let her feel her worth to him in a business way, so that she felt she earned not what he gave her, but she had accurately appraised her abilities; and then had trusted her to make good.

Naturally, Ruth was flattered when she thought of these things. How happy she would have been could she have discussed them with Brian! But as yet he had shown no slightest interest in her work—as work. Perhaps later she would be able to get him to view it in something like the manner in which she did—as a profession; and an artistic one of which he should be proud.

But his relations with Mollie King; his extravagance in going to those expensive places, were uppermost in her mind.

As regarded money, Ruth was a strange contradiction. Nothing was extravagant if you had the money; but debt! That to her was a horror. She had known only one person who had been the kind who runs in debt, and he had been held up to her as an example. One of her aunt's neighbors had such a husband, and they had lost their home, everything they owned, and the wife had died—people said of a broken heart, because of it.

Now that she would ever die of a broken heart from the same cause, no, she could take care of herself. But people had talked so terribly about old Mr. Lovelace. Had called him such awful names. And she remembered, with a shudder, that she had read a list of his creditors, and how much he owed them, in the county paper.

Perhaps Brian had made some extra money! That would explain it all. She would ask him, the very first thing, when she got home.

The afternoon wore away. Ruth was very busy and she forgot Brian for the time. But as soon as she reached home it all returned to her. Mollie—the restaurants—everything. She waited until they had finished dinner, then said: "Now tell me where you dined while I was away! Did you discover any new places?" "Yes, Mollie guided me to a little restaurant down town. A sixty cent dinner." "Cheap enough. Where else did you go?" "Oh, I ran around. I didn't go twice to the same place. It doesn't cost any more, and is more interesting." "Did you take Miss King to these other places?" it was out. Ruth avoided looking at him when she asked the question, but glanced up when he hesitated to answer, and caught the flush that swept his face. "Yes! I told you I wouldn't eat alone!"

Tomorrow—Brian Claims the Right To Take Mollie Out in Ruth's Absence.

Few of us appreciated just all it meant when we watched the rookie Sammies march down to the depots on their way to the concentration camps a few months back. Some of us, refusing to believe that the war would last until they reached the front, were inclined to smile at all the fuss that was made then. Some others, who had tasted in the bygone years of the sorrows of conflict, were deeply impressed. And still some others, as yet untouched by the call to arms, were mildly indifferent.

But now all of us are coming to realize what it really means. Each succeeding casualty list carries some familiar name, some one we knew or whose people we know, or whose locality spreads out before us like a picture when we read his name.

The gaunt finger of affliction may point to most of us any day.

It seems a long road to the finish at this time. We are only beginning to taste the bitter draught which England, France, Serbia, Romania, Belgium, France and a dozen other countries participating in the fight have been drinking for the last four years. And it may yet be for us to drink deeply too.

But sooner or later there can be but one end, and Johnnie will come marching home triumphantly. World freedom will be saved, our own future insured.

And when that happens all of us will be down along the line of march, our hats off, our hearts full to overflowing, our choked voices doing their very best to cheer the conquering heroes. It will be one of the big events in our lives.

But what of the man who didn't buy a bond.

God help him, where will he come in?

Don't be THAT MAN!

Get ready to buy your bond.

Just in front of the home of J. A. McMillan, a big touring car, traveling at a high rate of speed, struck their machine and knocked them in the ditch and through the wire fence, damaging their machine quite a bit, but fortunately neither one of them was injured aside from a jolting up. They failed to get the number of the machine as they put on more speed and got away.

Monkey's Valuable Discovery.
A literary discovery has just been made at the monastery of Mekitarista in the island of St. Lazarus, at Venice. A pet monkey had climbed to the top of a bookcase, where it seized hold of a bundle of papers, and, breaking the string, showered down a number of letters, the ink of which had become yellow with age. They proved to be a long correspondence between Lord Byron and the monks of St. Lazarus, with whom he had once resided.

TOTAL OF $38,942.97 IN STAMPS PURCHASED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

County Supt. F. M. Reynolds reports that the children of the Greene County School System, outside of Xenia, have sold $38,942.97 worth of Thrift and War Savings Stamps. Most of this is owned by the children themselves.

There are now enrolled in the schools of the county 3,000 children. This makes a per capita of $12.98 for each child enrolled. Xenia has sent in the largest per capita sales. Ross township second—Osborn third with $49.09, 37.08 and $36.53 respectively. Ross township was the first whole township in the county to reach 100 per cent efficiency, that is, each pupil in the township owns a card with some stamps in it. Several individual schools have reached the 100 per cent efficiency as well.

A more hearty co-operation on the part of the parents is solicited in this patriotic work. It is for the common good. Let all help Greene county reach her quota by January 1, the time this Thrift and War Savings Stamp sale closes. Greene county's quota is twenty dollars per person in the county. The entire population of the county is approximately thirty thousand and thirty thousand times twenty dollars is six hundred thousand, the amount assessed on our county.

A TWICE-TOLD TALE
One of Interest to Our Readers.

Good news bears repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. The following experience of a Xenia man is confirmed after two years.

James H. Blackburn, 216 N. West St., Xenia, says: "A cold settled on my kidneys and I had awful pains in my back. These pains started just over my kidneys and extended to my hips and legs and all through the small of my back. A friend told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box. Doan's were just what I needed. They strengthened my kidneys and drove out that trouble in my back." Statement given January 8, 1915.

LASTING RESULTS.
On August 2, 1917, Mr. Blackburn said: "Doan's Kidney Pills surely did all I said for them in the statement I gave in 1915. I am glad to say the cure Doan's gave me has lasted."

Motto for Dead Authors.
We are told that once, when Patience Worth was spelling out the endless pages of the "Sorry Tale," she came to a sudden stop, then wrote, "This be nuff," and knocked off for the night. A blessed phrase, and, of a certainty, her finest inspiration. Would that all dead authors would adopt it as their motto; and with ouija boards, and table legs, and automatic pencils, write as those far-fetched message to the world those three short, comely words, "This be nuff."—Agnes Repplier, in Atlantic.

GREENHOUSE AT JAMESTOWN IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire, which is believed to have been of incendiary origin or caused by spontaneous combustion almost destroyed the James Johnson greenhouse plant in Jamestown early Tuesday.

The loss, which is total, is covered by insurance with the LeSourd agency.

BLEEDING SPONGY AND SORE GUMS (PYORRHEA)

Write name plainly with address and send to T. H. Wilson, M.D. or M. J. Dixon, D.D.S., APEX REMEDIES CORPORATION, Suite 101, 101 W. Genesee St., Buffalo, N. Y.

The exact amount of the damage could not be given.

When the fire was first seen at 5 o'clock, flames were shooting through the roof over that part of the plant known as the shavings room, which adjoins the engine room. There was no fire being maintained in any part of the greenhouse and that gives ground for the belief that the blaze was incendiary.

The frame sheds and engine room were burned, and one of the seven glass covered greenhouses destroyed. The rest of the houses and the stock contained in them are damaged so that their loss is complete. Smoke and heat withered the plants rendering them in such a condition that they will not flourish.

The fire department did effective work and prevented the spread of the flames to adjoining property, and water was thrown on the Toland livery barn and Miller's blacksmith shop to prevent the buildings igniting. The greenhouse plant is situated in the center of the town, and is surrounded by frame buildings. Mr. Johnson bought the plant last February from Daniel Adst.

In our last issue in the article about Rev. Dr. P. C. Prugh's 96th birth anniversary, the name of the old town hall on Greene street, Xenia, should have read "Fireman's Hall," instead of Farmer's Hall.

WOMEN WORKERS ARE HELPING TO WIN WORLD FREEDOM

Every city in the United States, and Xenia is no exception to the rule, has a class of young women who in ordinary times are so situated, financially, that they are not required to work for a livelihood unless they so desire. In these war times there is no exemption from work and in many cities the young women of this class have recognized the fact and have entered useful employment, even though they do not need the money. This is an example that young women of Greene county could well follow. Practically every factory in Xenia is engaged in war work and every one of them is needing more help. Women, who in the past have not found it necessary to work, can help win the war by taking positions with these concerns.

The following editorial from the New York World, gives an idea of what the women of Great Britain have done in this great struggle for world freedom:

Thirteen million American women would be, in proportion, no greater number than the 6,000,000 British women who are engaged in "Wholesale" work, much of which, in one way or another, is essential to the war.

Not 6 per cent. of these women are in the more advertised services. The haphazardly "farmorettes," up to this year, were only 74,000; the hospital recruits, 64,000; all the military services together, "Waacs," "Wrens" and the like, but 200,000. Almost a million have been absorbed by finance and commerce. Transportation, hotels, theaters and various branches account for more than half a million.

But the big army—the "Amazons" who, as Harold Beebe writes, "have saved us"—are the 3,000,000 in the heavy, sometimes disfiguring, often dangerous work of metal, chemical and textile specialties, in dock-yards and ordnance details. The "canaries" whose faces are dyed yellow by the fumes where they work upon ammunition are typical of these heroines behind the lines.

Work "so hard that it was thought no woman could perform it" or "so dangerous that no man ever dreamed of asking a woman to do it" is thus taken care of while British men are at the war. In the same spirit, American women, as gradually the opportunity is opened to them, are welcoming similar toil to help win the war.

TEN THOUSAND PAY TRIBUTE TO LATE CARDINAL

New York, Sept. 24.—Ten thousand persons, the greatest crowd ever gathered in the edifice, were in St. Patrick's Cathedral today as final funeral services were held for Cardinal Farley, who died last week at his summer home near here.

Enthroned during the services were three Cardinals and the apostolic delegate, Archbishop Bonzano from Washington. Other dignitaries of the Catholic Church were present in great numbers. The Cardinals present were Gibbons, Baltimore; O'Connell, Boston and Begin, Quebec.

Archbishops present, in addition to the papal delegate, were Glennon, St. Louis; Dougherty, Philadelphia; Shaw, New Orleans; Moeller, Cincinnati; Martin Trichter, Cordova, Yucatan and Bruchesi, Montreal.

Bishops present were McDonnell, Brooklyn; Byrne, Nashville; Hoban, Scranton; Moran, Wilmington, Del.; O'Connor, Newark; Muldoon, Rockford, Ill.; Hickey, Rochester, N. Y.; Feehan, Fall River, Mass.; Farrelly, Cleveland; Grimes, Syracuse; Schrems, Toledo; Conroy, Ogdenburg, N. Y.; McCort, Philadelphia; Currier, Hetalonia, N. Y.; Hayes, Bishop in ordinary for the army and navy and auxiliary bishop of New York; Russell, Charleston, S. C., and Walsh, Trenton, N. J.

The consecrated mourners marched from the Cardinal's home to the cathedral and were accompanied by many friends of the late cardinal. At the church the final ceremony, a solemn high requiem mass, was conducted by Archbishop Bonzano. The burial oration was delivered by Bishop Hickey, of Rochester.

After these final services the body of the cardinal was placed beside those of Cardinal McCloskey and Archbishop Hughes and Corrigan, in the crypt under the central altar of the church. During the services a number of messages from high officials was read, among them one from President Wilson and from Pope Benedict.

BIG EVENTS ARE BREWING IN THE WORLD WAR

Paris, Sept. 24.—The most colossal battle of all time is now raging, the battle line stretching from New York to the other side of the Banks of the Jordan.

Perhaps the intensity is varying but it will not stop until the boche are beaten everywhere.

The allies hold the whip hand and big events seem brewing for the comparatively near future.

Still every allied officer and man today is most emphatic that there never was a time when the allies needed more to keep their eyes wide open, and never more need to be strong, than now.

Critics disagree on minor points but are in accord regarding them—that a decisive moment is approaching. They do not mean that this will be tomorrow, next week, or next month; but certainly in 1919, they can see an allied victory, providing the allies do not spare their utmost effort, afloat and ashore, fighters and civilians alike.

Indications point toward a grand finale. The Americans, French and British are pinning the Prussians tighter and tighter against the Hindenburg wall with mightier efforts in perspective. The U-boats are defeated on the seas; General March announcing that one and three quarters millions of Americans are now in France and Italy.

The Balkans already are aflame again, while General Allenby's cavalry gallops the Turks off the field of Armageddon.

YOU'RE RIGHT, BILL THEY HAVE HEAVY FIGHTING AHEAD

Amsterdam, Sept. 24.—The kaiser, addressing Austrian officers at Briey, while visiting the Alsace-Lorraine front Sunday, expressed his confidence that they would give the Americans "the right answer at the right moment."

"You have come to fight our battles as good comrades," he said.

"You know, perhaps, that we have heavy fighting before us. You know who are before you. The Americans have promised France that they would give her Alsace-Lorraine, which France alone cannot conquer.

"The Americans also wish to add big deeds to their big words. With the help of my troops, you will give them the right answer, at the right moment."

The kaiser distributed 400 Iron crosses and addressed Austrian, German, British and French wounded in their respective languages.

Even his neutrality was an assumed role, as he is now striving to keep up the role. I do not say he is insincere, but there are cases in American history in which America herself violated the fourteen points he formulates.

"Proof that the entente fears the effects of the proposal on the Pacific, is shown by the speed with which Premier Clemenceau and Secretary Balfour spoke. It would serve no purpose to reply to their speeches.

"There was complete agreement between Germany and Austria-Hungary in regard to the dispatch of the note.

"The Hindenburg line will hold, but we must neglect nothing that will bring peace nearer."

ALL QUIET EXCEPT THE ARTILLERY ON THE WOEVRE FRONT

BY FRED S. FERGUSON

With the Americans on the Metz Front, Sept. 24.—Aside from artillery bombardment of important German centers, with counter-shelling of American positions, the Woivre front is quiet.

An American raid on the left center yesterday netted some prisoners. The enemy laid down a barrage on the adjoining sectors, but their infantry failed to come over to face our counter fire.

Near St. Hilaire another American raid resulted in the taking of 146 prisoners.

Scarcely an airplane or balloon was seen in the sky all day yesterday, the rain stopping aerial activity. The entire front is largely mud locked. An instance of the effectiveness of the American Indians in certain lines of work is illustrated in the report from a certain division. Whenever the commander wants information he sends out an Indian, who invariably returns with it. The Indian is unable to reckon distance except by hours. Being asked how far he went into the German lines, he says: "Three hours there, three hours back."

The Indian is credited with being able to distinguish boches camouflage trees from real ones. The Germans move sets of miniature trees to conform with certain movements, the movable trees concealing machine gun nests and observation posts. But they are unable to deceive him and he spots them every time.

TRENCH WARFARE MAY BE RESUMED ON BRITISH FRONT

With the British Armies in France, Sept. 24.—The British front seems about to become the scene of trench warfare again.

If the British succeed in their general advance, it will reflect greater credit than any of their remarkable successes in the past several weeks. They are now fairly up against the Hindenburg line from St. Quentin to beyond Cambrai and, while the line itself is pierced on the front before Cambrai there is yet such a wilderness of defense barring their path as only the methodical, patient, machine-like Huns are capable of constructing.

These mazes are from a mile to two miles deep. Part of the way then is a canal 70 feet wide and probably 50 feet deep in some places, with deep spread trenches before and behind it. If this machine-like barricade could save him, Von Hindenburg should feel safe, but the Germans unquestionably regard the situation nervously with their first line from Havincourt to Moeuvres cracked, and with the Australians perched on a ridge where the German outposts system lies, between Bellecourt and Bellenglise.

In the latter strip the Germans still retain an enormous advantage however, as the dry bed of the canal stretches for three miles there.

Recent demonstrations of what tanks and instantaneous fuse shells are able to do to ordinary defenses, argue against impregnability of any lines.

The Germans in this section have the opportunity to resume their favorite trench warfare and may hope to revitalize, or rather rediscipline their demoralized forces into making a stand.

CLAIMS HINDENBURG LINE WILL HOLD STILL GERMANS WANT PEACE

Amsterdam, Sept. 24.—Baron Burian, Austrian-Hungarian foreign minister, in a statement to the Berlin newspapers, declared he was not surprised at the allies reception of the Austrian proposal but that nothing should be neglected to bring peace nearer.

"I feel no surprise at the entente reception of the Austrian proposal which was an effort to bring out things clearly, which is occasionally necessary," Burian said.

"The rapidity with which President Wilson replied is remarkable. He clearly wanted to anticipate the other members of the entente. He always wanted to be arbiter of the world.

MANY BULGARIANS CAPTURED AND THE TURKS ARE IN TRAP

London, Sept. 24.—Allied successes in Macedonia and Palestine continue to grow. Control of Siberia also is being rapidly completed by the allies.

The operations in the Balkans are taking on the aspect of a major defeat for the Bulgarians. Their armies in southern Serbia and northeastern Greece have been virtually split by cutting of the Uskub-Salonika and Grasseo-Philp railways. The allies are advancing in the whole region between Monastir and Lake Doiran and the original front of about 75 miles has been stretched to nearly 100 miles by the growth of the big wedge being driven northward. Through the seizure of Kalyani, allied troops are now only six miles southeast of the important city of Philp, which is one of their immediate objectives. To the eastward they have penetrated much farther north and are paralleling the Vardar from the Doiran region to its junction with the Cerna. West of Doiran, the allies are within reach of Bogdane, six miles west and north of the village of Doiran, while their left wing has passed Mogila, five miles north of Monastir.

Official reports of prisoners and guns to date are lacking, but it is unofficially stated that the Serbians alone have taken nearly 10,000 Bulgarians and 120 guns. British, French, Greek, Italian and Czecho-Slovak troops are participating in the offensive.

The latest official announcement that Gen. Allenby's armies have taken more than 25,000 Turkish prisoners in Palestine leads to the belief that thousands more will be added to this haul. It is supposed that between 40,000 and 50,000 Turks were trapped between the Jordan and the Mediterranean when British and Indian cavalry headed off the retreat northward by seizing the line through Nazareth to the sea of Galilee. After the Arabs crossed the last avenue of escape across the Jordan, it became a matter of merely hunting down those Turks remaining within the trap.

Semi-official reports have been received here that Japanese troops have occupied Blagovyschensk, on the Amur river, 500 miles northwest of Vladivostok. Two thousand Austro-Germans were captured in this operation. They surrendered in Chinese territory, just across the river from the captured Nerchinsk, 500 miles west of Blagovyschensk, less than 300 miles east of Lake Baikal.

French troops, south of St. Quentin have reached the west bank of the Oise, on the three mile front between Vendeuil and Travecy. Farther northward, the British are still battering away at the Hindenburg defenses between Cambrai and St. Quentin.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF PACKING INDUSTRY AFTER WAR ADVOCATED

BY L. C. MARTIN.

Washington, Sept. 24.—In seeking a way to relieve the American people from the high cost of living, congress has practically abandoned the idea of putting the meat packing business under government control while the war lasts.

Many congressional students of the high cost of living, problem have vigorously advocated government operation of the meat business as an essential first step. But they agree that to add this enterprise to the multitude of huge new tasks Uncle Sam has undertaken since the war begun, might defeat the very purpose they have in mind. While they have somewhat reluctantly accepted this view, they have not and will not relinquish their adherence to the principle of government control of stock yards and packing houses as a necessary part of the permanent solution of the cost of living problem here. They have simply postponed accomplishment of this reform, determined to put it through after the war.

It is deemed unlikely that President Wilson will recommend legislation for government control of either stock yards or packing houses now, as a result of his study of the federal trade commission's recommendations. The president already has the power to take over either the stock yards or the packing houses, or both, in a war emergency if this becomes necessary. While the senate agricultural committee is ostensibly conducting hearings on the Thompson resolution for government control of the meat industry, it is unlikely that the resolution will be brought to a vote this season. The real purpose of the investigation is to find out whether the packers have been white-washing themselves in the eyes of the public by attacking the federal trade commission, through chamber of commerce of the United States. In an effort to get further light on this, the committee today is to hear Harry A. Wheeler, president of the chamber.

ONE GOOD PUNCH COULD PUT AUSTRIA OUT OF THE WAR

New York, Sept. 24.—Ten divisions of American troops in Italy could win the war by Christian, Charles Edward Russell, who has just returned from Italy, declared today in an interview with the United Press.

Russell was a member of the social-democratic league mission which went abroad to study war conditions. His information, he said, was derived from careful investigation and the best official authorities.

Americans at home, Russell declared, should be prepared to make some very real sacrifices, in cutting down on light, heat and automobile to relieve Italy's coal famine and keep her at full strength this winter.

"If there were ten divisions of American soldiers in Italy now the war could be ended by Christmas or before," he said. "This is not a rash assertion of a civilian that has seen only a few battle-fronts, but it is the deliberate judgment of the best military observers that have carefully studied the exact situation in Italy."

"Even if the Americans never fired a shot on the battle line nor never went out of a training camp, the effect of their mere presence in Italy would be tremendous that in all probability the Italians would break the don."

CITY OFFICIALS RECOMMEND THAT WATER BE BOILED

While City Manager Riddle and Health Officer Grube have received no definite report from the State Health Department regarding the source of the typhoid fever epidemic in Xenia, they have decided to be on the safe side and after a conference held at noon Tuesday decided to advise the people of Xenia to boil all water before using. While there have been indications that the public water supply may be at fault state health officials have not so reported. In the meantime the city authorities feel that every precaution should be taken to guard against further spread of the disease.

City Manager Riddle received a letter today from the State Department of Health containing the statement that the department had made an investigation of the recent unusual occurrence of typhoid fever in this city and that the data obtained from this investigation are now being studied carefully. While no conclusions have been drawn there are indications that the public water supply may have been the cause, the letter states. A recommendation is also made in the letter received by Mr. Riddle that a new water supply be developed by the local water company which would render unnecessary the placing of entire dependence upon the disinfection treatment.

While no new cases of typhoid fever were reported today to the health officer, there are several cases of illness under suspicion, which the attending physicians believe will develop into typhoid. Miss Clara Hoog, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hoog of East Third street, is ill, and her physician was almost ready today to report her case as typhoid, although he had not entirely decided that she is a victim of the epidemic.

REV. ERNEST FOSTER DIES AFTER ILLNESS OF ONLY A FEW DAYS

After only a few days illness of double pneumonia, the Rev. S. Ernest Foster, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Foster, formerly of Clifton, died at a hospital in Union City, Ind., at 8 o'clock, Tuesday morning.

Mrs. R. E. Corry, of Yellow Springs, mother-in-law of the young clergyman, and his parents, who live at Forest, O., were called to Union City, Monday, and with his young wife were with him when he passed away. Mr. Foster had been suffering from a heavy cold for several days before pneumonia developed. Everything possible was done for him in a vain hope of saving his life. Dr. F. C. Adams of Yellow Springs, the Foster family physician when they lived in this county, was called to Union City in consultation in Mr. Foster's case, Monday, and when he returned Monday evening, he brought no hope for the young man's recovery.

Mr. Foster was the second son of Rev. and Mrs. Henry Foster, and was 25 years of age. He was born in Pennsylvania. During the seven years of his father's pastorate at the Presbyterian church in Clifton, the young man attended Cedarville college and Lane Theological Seminary, Cincinnati, where he graduated two years ago. He married Miss Mildred J. J. daughter of County Commissioner and Mrs. R. E. Corry, in October, 1916, and they went immediately to housekeeping at Union City, where Mr. Foster had already had a call to the pastorate of the Presbyterian church.

Besides his young widow, Mr. Foster leaves a seven months old daughter, Charlotte, his parents and two brothers, the Rev. Wendell Foster, who has a charge at Middletown, but who is now engaged in Y. M. C. A. work in some southern camp, and Norman, who went to Camp Sherman with the last contingent from Greene county.

Services will be held at the Union City church, and the body will be taken to Clifton, where funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT NOT READY TO REPORT

Dr. R. H. Grube, city health officer, received a letter Tuesday morning from Dr. E. J. Schwartz, state epidemiologist, in which he told the health officer that the State Department of Health had not completed its investigations of the typhoid epidemic in Xenia, and was not ready to report.

Dr. Grube expects to have a report very soon at least, of the chemist's analysis of the specimens of water which were taken to Columbus by Dr. Schwartz upon the occasion of his first visit last Wednesday. Other specimens were taken away for analysis last Friday when Dr. Schwartz and Engineer Waring of the State Department of Health conducted a further investigation in an effort to determine the source of the infection. Samples of water from two wells on the Greene County fair grounds were sent to Columbus for analysis by Dr. Grube Monday. Water from one of these wells at least was freely partaken of by patrons at the fair the first week in August, and this water was also used in making lemonade and other drinks sold to the fair crowds.

SOME IMPORTANT SUGGESTIONS BY OHIO'S BOOK-KEEPER.

We are in receipt of the annual report of A. V. Donahey, Auditor of the State of Ohio, for the fiscal year ending, June 30, 1918. Mr. Donahey is the State bookkeeper, and as a consequence knows more about the state finances than anybody else. For this reason he is able to tell the people just how much money they pay in the way of taxes and how this money is spent. If some of the money is spent injudiciously, it is within his province to tell that, and as the report is addressed to the Governor and the General Assembly of the State, in his opinion alteration of the laws would be for the betterment of the State finances and consequently to the interest of the people, it is his duty to make such suggestions to the State Legislature. The Ohio Legislature meets in January, 1919, for its regular session, when will develop upon the necessity of making appropriations to conduct the state government for the biennium beginning July 1, 1919, and ending June 30, 1921.

The most important questions of finance demanding solution at the hands of the General Assembly, completely overshadowing all others, are: 1st. How can financial aid be given the counties, cities and schools of Ohio, that actually need assistance, without destroying the limitations of the Smith one per cent law? 2nd. If the State prohibition constitutional amendment be ratified at the November election, the state and its subdivisions will lose nearly seven millions of revenue annually derived from the traffic in intoxicating liquors. By what form of taxation shall the loss be met?

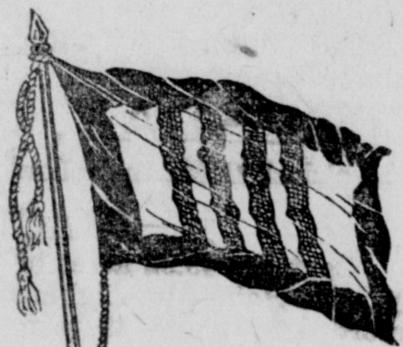

Mr. Donahey having served as State auditor for nearly six years suggests the following change in the State's fiscal policy to overcome the first of the above named problems. For the last fiscal year the State received from licenses from automobiles and other motor vehicles a total of $2,160,360.96. This sum is credited to the Highway department, and the law requires that it shall be used in the maintenance of roads. But he shows that it is not needed, and proposes a change in the law that this money be returned to the cities, villages and townships where vehicles are owned. This would furnish the cities and villages of Ohio two million dollars of new revenue annually.

He says: "This change will not deprive the Highway Department of needed revenue nor diminish state aid for road construction, throughout Ohio. The revenue now received by the Highway Department from the state direct levy of three-tenths of one mill, which the past year amounted to $2,432,503.66, are ample for all requirements and furnish all the money the department can intelligently spend. At the close of business on June 30, 1918, there was a cash balance in the Highway Fund of, $4,843,968.38. I am of the firm belief that Ohio would have more miles of improved road if the Highway Department had less money to spend. Building brick roads at a cost of from $30,000.00 to $40,000.00 per mile, in rural communities, should be abandoned in Ohio. The expenditure of a much smaller sum will improve a greater mileage of ordinary traffic roads if stone, gravel and other local materials are used where road-building material of suitable quality is available. Counties and townships with small duplicates have been unable to meet their proportion from taxation, and as a result of building roads, costing often in excess of $20,000.00 per mile, these taxing districts have buried themselves under bond issues, totaling in the state for road purposes, over fifty million dollars."

As to the second important financial problem mentioned above, the loss of revenue of nearly six million dollars, if the State adopts prohibition at the November election. Mr. Donahey suggests an inheritance tax, such as exists in forty of the forty-eight states of the Union, and gives a schedule of such an one that would produce in the State about eight millions of dollars. Mr. Donahey, though, takes time by the forelock and says the lawmakers and tax payers should study the inheritance tax proposal carefully for unquestionably national prohibition, under the amendment awaiting action by the General Assembly, will be ratified by the required number of states in a very few years, and then we will be compelled to seek additional revenues from other sources than saloons. Mr. Donahey adds: "If an inheritance tax law be passed, the General Assembly should enact a law requiring that all deeds conveying real estate shall show the actual consideration involved in the transaction and failure to do so should be punished by fine or imprisonment. The day of that foolish camouflage "One dollar and other considerations" should end in Ohio."

X. H. S. VICTORIOUS IN ITS FIRST GAME

The X. H. S. football team journeyed to Greenfield Saturday and played McLean High School.

This was the first game of the season and was played as a practice game.

Riddell and Owens also showed up well on the line. Tullis and Hartsock also made gains for the Blue and White.

Coach Ferris expresses himself as being well pleased with the showing made and predicts a victory over Washington next Saturday.

"THE WIFE"

BY JANE PHELPS

MR. MANDEL'S KNOWLEDGE OF BRIAN PUZZLES RUTH.

CHAPTER I.

Suddenly Ruth stood still. How did Arthur Mandel know Brian? She was sure they never had met, because she had asked Brian to call at the shop for her and to meet her employer, and he had refused, saying he didn't want to know him, not even to know what he looked like.

That she herself had told Mandel, as plainly as if she had spoken, that it was her husband they saw the day in Washington Square, she had no idea. And that Mandel had taken pains to verify his suspicions, she would scarcely have believed. Why should he?

Ruth had no slightest idea that Arthur Mandel was becoming intensely interested in her. Community of interest, fondness for the same things, are good groundwork for closer relations. This she did not realize. And when added is the idea that the husband is enamored of another woman, what more natural than to try to make an impression if one cares enough—and Arthur Mandel was beginning to care a great deal for Ruth Hackett.

From the day he had seen Brian Hackett and Mollie King together, a feeling that sometime he might win Ruth for himself had possessed Arthur Mandel. But he was wise enough to realize Ruth's innate purity, and to understand that he might lose her altogether—even from the shop—if he gave his feeling for her expression.

The Mollie, artist and bohemian, had offered to help Brian pass the time because she pitied him for having married Ruth, was something Mandel could do of course know nothing of, or even conceive. Neither did he stop to consider what the attitude of most people would be toward Brian—that they would mostly say:

"What can anyone expect? His wife goes off and leaves him alone. Why shouldn't he enjoy himself with another woman?"

A man's conscience is gullible. It is very elastic, especially as regards his love affairs. Brian's conscience was much like that of the majority of men. He scolded it by blaming Ruth. While Mandel did not attempt to intrigue himself that he was not going to do all he could to win Ruth, he also blamed Brian for neglecting her.

Ruth thought often of Mandel's kindness to her. There was a sense of comfort when she thought of him. He had given her congenial work to do, instead of slavery—as she called it—she had been doing for Brian. He had let her feel her worth to him in a business way, so that she felt she earned not what he gave her, but more. He had accurately appraised her abilities; and then had trusted her to make good.

Naturally, Ruth was flattered when she thought of these things. How happy she would have been could she have discussed them with Brian! But as yet he had shown no slightest interest in her work—as work. Perhaps later she would be able to get him to view it in something like the manner in which she did—as a profession; and an artistic one of which he should be proud.

But now his relations with Mollie King; his extravagance in going to those expensive places, were uppermost in her mind.

As regarded money, Ruth was a strange contradiction. Nothing was extravagant if you had the money; but debt! That to her was a horror. She had known only one person who had been the kind who runs in debt, and he had been held up to her as an example. One of her aunt's neighbors had lost their home, everything they owned, and the wife had died—people said of a broken heart, because of it.

No, that she would ever die of a broken heart from the same cause, no, she could take care of herself. But people had talked so terribly about old Mr. Lovelace. Had called him such awful names. And she remembered, with a shudder, that she had read a list of his creditors, and how much he owed them, in the county paper.

Perhaps Brian had made some extra money! That would explain it all. She would ask him, the very first thing, when she got home.

The afternoon wore away. Ruth was very busy and she forgot Brian for the time. But as soon as she reached home it all recurred to her.

Mollie—the restaurants—everything.

She waited until they had finished dinner, then said:

"Now tell me where you dined while I was away! Did you discover any new places?"

"Yes, Mollie guided me to a little restaurant down town. A sixty cent dinner."

"Cheap enough. Where else did you go?"

"Oh, I ran around. I didn't go twice to the same place. It doesn't cost any more, and is more interesting."

"Did you take Miss King to these other places?" it was out. Ruth avoided looking at him when she asked the question, but glanced up when he hesitated to answer, and caught the flush that swept his face.

"Yes! I told you I wouldn't eat alone!"

Tomorrow—Brian Claims the Right To Take Mollie Out in Ruth's Absence.

DON'T BE A MAN WHO DID NOT BUY A LIBERTY BOND

Few of us appreciated just all it meant when we watched the rookie Sammies march down to the depots on their way to the concentration camps a few months back. Some of us, refusing to believe that the war would last until they reached the front, were inclined to smile at all the fuss that was made then. Some others, who had tasted in the bygone years of the sorrows of conflict, were deeply impressed. And still some others, as yet untouched by the call to arms, were mildly indifferent.

But now all of us are coming to realize what it really means.

Each succeeding casualty list carries some familiar name, some one we knew or whose people we know, or whose locality spreads out before us like a picture when we read his name.

The gaunt finger of affliction may point to most of us any day.

It seems a long road to the finish at this time. We are only beginning to taste the bitter draught which England, France, Serbia, Romania, Belgium, France and a dozen other countries participating in the fight have been drinking for the last four years. And it may yet be for us to drink deeply too.

But sooner or later there can be but one end, and Johnnie will come marching home triumphantly. World freedom will be saved, our own future insured.

And when that happens all of us will be down along the line of march, our hats off, our hearts full to overflowing, our choked voices doing their very best to cheer the conquering heroes. It will be one of the big events in our lives.

But what of the man who didn't buy a bond.

God help him, where will he come in? Don't be THAT MAN!

Get ready to buy your bond.

SOME IMPORTANT SUGGESTIONS BY OHIO'S BOOK-KEEPER.

We are in receipt of the annual report of A. V. Donahey, Auditor of the State of Ohio, for the fiscal year ending, June 30, 1918. Mr. Donahey is the State bookkeeper, and as a consequence knows more about the state finances than anybody else. For this reason he is able to tell the people just how much money they pay in the way of taxes and how this money is spent. If some of the money is spent injudiciously, it is within his province to tell that, and as the report is addressed to the Governor and the General Assembly of the State, if in his opinion alteration of the laws would be for the betterment of the State finances and consequently to the interest of the people, it is his duty to make such suggestions to the State Legislature. The Ohio Legislature meets in January, 1919, for its regular session, when will devolve upon it the necessity of making appropriations to conduct the state government for the biennium beginning July 1, 1919, and ending June 30, 1921.

The most important questions of finance demanding solution at the hands of the General Assembly, completely overshadowing all others, are: 1st. How can financial aid be given the counties, cities and schools of Ohio, that actually need assistance, without destroying the limitations of the Smith one per cent law? 2nd. If the State prohibition constitutional amendment be ratified at the November election, the state and its subdivisions will lose nearly seven millions of revenue annually derived from the traffic in intoxicating liquors. By what form of taxation shall the loss be met?

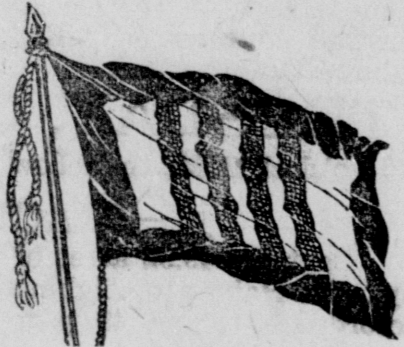

Mr. Donahey having served as State auditor for nearly six years suggests the following change in the State's fiscal policy to overcome the first of the above named problems. For the last fiscal year the State received from licenses from automobiles and other motor vehicles a total of $2,160,360.96. This sum is credited to the Highway department, and the law requires that it shall be used in the maintenance of roads. But he shows that it is not needed, and proposes a change in the law that this money be returned to the cities, villages and townships where vehicles are owned. This would furnish the cities and villages of Ohio two million dollars of new revenue annually.

He says: "This change will not deprive the Highway Department of needed revenue nor diminish state aid for road construction throughout Ohio. The revenue now received by the Highway Department from the state direct levy of three-tenths of one mill, which the past year amounted to $2,432,503.66, are ample for all requirements and furnish all the money the department can intelligently spend. At the close of business on June 30, 1918, there was a cash balance in the Highway Fund of, $4,843,968.38. I am of the firm belief that Ohio would have more miles of improved road if the Highway Department had less money to spend. Building brick roads at a cost of from $30,000.00 to $40,000.00 per mile, in rural communities, should be abandoned in Ohio. The expenditure of a much smaller sum will improve a greater mileage of ordinary traffic roads if stone, gravel and other local materials are used where road-building material of suitable quality is available. Counties and townships with small duplicates have been unable to meet their proportion from taxation, and as a result of building roads, costing often in excess of $20,000.00 per mile, these taxing districts have buried themselves under bond issues, totaling in the state for road purposes, over fifty million dollars."

As to the second important financial problem mentioned above, the loss of revenue of nearly six million dollars, if the State adopts prohibition at the November election. Mr. Donahey suggests an inheritance tax, such as exists in forty of the forty-eight states of the Union, and gives a schedule of such an one that would produce in the State about eight millions of dollars. Mr. Donahey, though, takes time by the forelock and says the lawmakers and tax payers should study the inheritance tax proposal carefully for unquestionably national prohibition, under the amendment awaiting action by the General Assembly, will be ratified by the required number of states in a very few years, and then we will be compelled to seek additional revenues from other sources than saloons. Mr. Donahey adds: "If an inheritance tax law be passed, the General Assembly should enact a law requiring that all deeds conveying real estate shall show the actual consideration involved in the transaction and failure to do so should be punished by fine or imprisonment. The day of that foolish camouflage 'One dollar and other considerations' should end in Ohio."

Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Luck (Bertha Dice), are just announcing to their friends, the fact that they were married in Kentucky a week ago last Saturday.

Relatives of the bride were not aware of the marriage until Monday. Telling her family that she intended spending the day in Dayton, the bride went to that city, joined her fiancé, and they made the trip to Cincinnati together, returning husband and wife. The bride returned to this city where she had been making her home with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dice of West Main street, and remained with them until Monday, when she and her young husband went to make their home temporarily with the latter's parents on Elm street.

Mr. Luck is employed by The Dayton Metal Products Company and his bride has been working for the Xenia Shoe manufacturing company.

X. H. S. VICTORIOUS IN ITS FIRST GAME

The X. H. S. football team journeyed to Greenfield Saturday and played McLean High School.

This was the first game of the season and was played as a practice game.

The team played as they left off last year, every man being a regular from last year. Greenfield was completely out-classed, and did not have a chance for victory.

Steps at quarter played a fine game and besides keeping the opponents guessing, he made several good gains. Captain Currie at the full could always be depended on and kicked 4 goals from touchdowns. Riddell and Owens also showed up well on the line. Tullis and Hartsock also made gains for the Blue and White.

Coach Ferris expresses himself as being well pleased with the showing made and predicts a victory over Washington next Saturday.

The line-up:

"THE WIFE"

BY JANE PHELPS

MR. MANDEL'S KNOWLEDGE OF BRIAN PUZZLES RUTH.

CHAPTER I.

Suddenly Ruth stood still. How did Arthur Mandel know Brian? She was sure they never had met, because she had asked Brian to call at the shop for her and to meet her employer, and he had refused, saying he didn't want to know him, not even to know what he looked like.

That she herself had told Mandel, as plainly as if she had spoken, that it was her husband they saw the day in Washington Square, she had no idea. And that Mandel had taken pains to verify his suspicions, she would scarcely have believed. Why should he?

Ruth had no slightest idea that Arthur Mandel was becoming intensely interested in her. Community of interest, fondness for the same things, are good groundwork for closer relations. This she did not realize. And when added to the idea that the husband is enamored of another woman, what more natural than to try to make an impression if one cares enough—and Arthur Mandel was beginning to care a great deal for Ruth Hackett.

From the day he had seen Brian Hackett and Mollie King together, a feeling that sometime he might win Ruth for himself had possessed Arthur Mandel. But he was wise enough to realize Ruth's innate purity, and to understand that he might lose her altogether—even from the shop—if he gave his feeling for her expression.

That Mollie, artist and bohemian, had offered to help Brian pass the time because she pitied him for having married Ruth, was something Mandel could not conceive. Neither did he stoop to consider what the attitude of most people would be toward Brian—that they would mostly say:

"What can anyone expect? His wife goes off and leaves him alone. Why shouldn't he enjoy himself with another woman?"

A man's conscience is gullible. It is very elastic, especially as regards his love affairs. Brian's conscience was much like that of the majority of men. He soothed it by blaming Ruth.

While Mandel did not attempt to intrigue himself that he was not going to do all he could to win Ruth, he also blamed Brian for neglecting her. Ruth thought often of Mandel's kindness to her. There was a sense of comfort when she thought of him. He had given her congenial work to do, instead of slavery—as she called it—she had been doing for Brian. He had let her feel her worth to him in a business way, so that she felt she earned not what he gave her, but more. He had accurately appraised her abilities; and then had trusted her to make good.

Naturally, Ruth was flattered when she thought of these things. How happy she would have been could she have discussed them with Brian! But as yet he had shown no slightest interest in her work—as work. Perhaps later she would be able to get him to view it in something like the manner in which she did—as a profession; and an artistic one of which he should be proud.

But now his relations with Mollie King; his extravagance in going to those expensive places, were uppermost in her mind.

As regarded money, Ruth was a strange contradiction. Nothing was extravagant if you had the money; but debt! That to her was a horror. She had known only one person who had been the kind who runs in debt, and he had been held up to her as an example. One of her aunt's neighbors had such a husband, and they had lost their home, everything they owned, and the wife had died—people said of a broken heart, because of it.

Not that she would ever die of a broken heart from the same cause, no, she could take care of herself. But people had talked so terribly about old Mr. Lovelace. Had called him such awful names. And she remembered, with a shudder, that she had read a list of his creditors, and how much he owed them, in the county paper.

Perhaps Brian had made some extra money! That would explain it all. She would ask him, the very first thing, when she got home.

The afternoon wore away. Ruth was very busy and she forgot Brian for the time. But as soon as she reached home it all recurred to her. Mollie—the restaurants—everything.

She waited until they had finished dinner, then said: "Now tell me where you dined while I was away! Did you discover any new places?"

"Yes, Mollie guided me to a little restaurant down town. A sixty cent dinner."

"Cheap enough. Where else did you go?"

"Oh, I ran around. I didn't go twice to the same place. It doesn't cost any more, and is more interesting."

"Did you take Miss King to these other places?" it was out. Ruth avoided looking at him when she asked the question, but glanced up when he hesitated to answer, and caught the flush that swept his face. "Yes! I told you I wouldn't eat alone!"

Tomorrow—Brian Claims the Right To Take Mollie Out in Ruth's Absence.

DON'T BE A MAN WHO DID NOT BUY A LIBERTY BOND

Few of us appreciated just all it meant when we watched the rookie Sammies march down to the depots on their way to the concentration camps a few months back. Some of us, refusing to believe that the war would last until they reached the front, were inclined to smile at all the fuss that was made then. Some others, who had tasted in the bygone years of the sorrows of conflict, were deeply impressed. And still some others, as yet untouched by the call to arms, were mildly indifferent.

But now all of us are coming to realize what it really means.

Each succeeding casualty list carries some familiar name, some one we knew or whose people we know, or whose locality spreads out before us like a picture when we read his name.

The gaunt finger of affliction may point to most of us any day. It seems a long road to the finish at this time. We are only beginning to taste the bitter draught which England, France, Serbia, Romania, Belgium, France and a dozen other countries participating in the fight have been drinking for the last four years. And it may yet be for us to drink deeply too.

But sooner or later there can be but one end, and Johnnie will come marching home triumphantly. World freedom will be saved, our own future insured.

And when that happens all of us will be down along the line of march, our hats off, our hearts full to overflowing, our choked voices doing their very best to cheer the conquering heroes. It will be one of the big events in our lives.

But what of the man who didn't buy a bond.

God help him, where will he come in?

Don't be THAT MAN!
Get ready to buy your bond.

The Famous Stromberg Carburetor

"Makes a New Car Of It," says most any autoist who has put on a STROMBERG.

This carburetor is scientifically made—breaks up the heat units sufficiently enough to enable the gasoline to properly mix with air—something unattainable in other carburetors.

Thereby you receive the maximum economy—you receive an extreme increase in power—and the response to control and even running is notable at once.

Allow me to demonstrate my claim of 50 per cent increased mileage, by installing a STROMBERG.

Monkey's Valuable Discovery.

A literary discovery has just been made at the monastery of Mekitarista. In the island of St. Lazarus, at Venice, A pet monkey had climbed to the top of a bookcase, where it seized hold of a bundle of papers, and, breaking the string, showered down a number of letters, the ink of which had become yellow with age. They proved to be a long correspondence between Lord Byron and the monks of St. Lazarus, with whom he once resided.

TOTAL OF $38,942.97 IN STAMPS PURCHASED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

County Supt. F. M. Reynolds reports that the children of the Greene County School System, outside of Xenia, have sold $38,942.97 worth of Thrift and War Savings Stamps. Most of this is owned by the children themselves.

There are now enrolled in the schools of the county 3,444 children. This makes a per capita of $11.30 for each child enrolled. Jamestown has sent in the largest per capita sales. Ross township secondarily, Osborn third with $49.09, 37.09 and $86.53 respectively. Ross township was the first whole township in the county to reach 100 per cent efficiency, that is each pupil in the township owns a card with some stamps in it. Several individual schools have reached the 100 per cent efficiency as, the Osborn high school, the Cottage Corner school in Silvercreek township, the Junkins in New Jasper, the Upper room at Union in Xenia township and the Faubert in Sugar creek township.

A more hearty co-operation on the part of the parents is solicited in this patriotic work. It is for the common good. Let all help. Greene county reach her quota by January 1, the time this Thrift and War Savings Stamp sale closes. Greene county's quota is twenty dollars per person in the county. The entire population of the county is approximately thirty thousand and thirty thousand times twenty dollars is six hundred thousand dollars, the amount assessed on our county.

O. S. AND S. O. HOME

Expulsion should exercise care in the keeping of their discharge papers, etc., of the Home. Requests for duplicate copies are reaching the Home in large numbers, daily, now, particularly from those who are of the draft age.

The heaviest rainfall of the season was recorded here by the Home weather observer Monday. The official rain gauge showed that 2.14 inches of water had fallen between Sunday evening at 4 o'clock and Monday evening at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Elmer Piper, matron of Cottage 20, received a telegram from her brother, of Moreau, Ohio, last Friday morning, stating the death of his youngest son. She left Friday so as to be on time for the funeral which was held Saturday morning.

The big banana tree at the greenhouse was reduced to infancy in height this week, the tree having grown so tall as to endanger the glass roof. The tree yielded a fine bunch of bananas the past season.

Miss Leona Hitesman, who has been a matron of the Home for the last seven years, resigned her position and left for Harveysburg, Wayne County, Ohio, Thursday, where she will accept a position as principal of Wayne high schools. Miss Hitesman also taught in the Home schools several years ago.

Walter Redman, who has had charge of the butchering department for the past four months, resigned his position, to take effect last Sunday.

Dairyman Andrew Liming says the dairy herd of 40 cows are producing 115 gallons of milk daily. 110 gallons are delivered to the main building and 5 to the hospital.

A TWICE-TOLD TALE

One of Interest to Our Readers.

Good news bears repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. The following experience of a Xenia man is confirmed after two years.

James H. Blackburn, 216 N. West St., Xenia, says: "A cold settled on my kidneys and I had awful pains in my back. These pains started just over my kidneys and extended to my hips and legs and all through the small of my back. A friend told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box. Doan's were just what I needed. They strengthened my kidneys and drove out that trouble in my back." Statement given January 8, 1915.

LASTING RESULTS.

On August 2, 1917, Mr. Blackburn said: "Doan's Kidney Pills surely did all I said for them in the statement I gave in 1915. I am glad to say the cure Doan's gave me has lasted."

Motto for Dead Authors.

We are told that once, when Patience Worth was spelling out the endless pages of the "Sorry Tale," she came to a sudden stop, then wrote, "This be nuff," and knocked off for the night. A blessed phrase, and, of a certainty, her finest inspiration. Would that all dead authors would adopt it as their motto; and with quill boards, and tangle legs, and automatic pencils, write as their farewell message to the world those three short, comely words, "This be nuff."—Agnes Repplier, in Atlantic.

GREENHOUSE AT JAMESTOWN IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire, which is believed to have been of incendiary origin or caused by spontaneous combustion almost destroyed the James Johnson greenhouse plant in Jamestown early Tuesday.

The loss, which is total, is covered by insurance with the LeSourd agency.

Save Your Teeth

Everyone afflicted with any mouth trouble—Bleeding, Sore, Spontaneous Gums, Loose Teeth, Pus Pockets, Foul Breath—should write for FREE BOOKLET explaining the symptoms and seriousness of Pyorrhea to the general health. Fully describing the disease and the treatment necessary to "Save Your Teeth"

Write name plainly with address and send to T. H. Wilson, M.D. or M. J. Dixon, D.D.S. APEX REMEDIES CORPORATION, Suite #1 K 17 W. G. Moore St., Buffalo, N. Y.

The exact amount of the damage could not be given.

When the fire was first seen at 5 o'clock, flames were shooting through the roof over that part of the plant known as the shavings room, which adjoins the engine room. There was no fire being maintained in any part of the greenhouse and that gives ground for the belief that the blaze was incendiary.

The frame sheds and engine room were burned, and one of the seven glass covered greenhouses destroyed. The rest of the houses and the stock contained in them are damaged so that their loss is complete. Smoke and heat withered the plants rendering them in such a condition that they will not flourish.

The fire department did effective work and prevented the spread of the flames to adjoining property, and water was thrown on the Toland livery barn and Miller's blacksmith shop to prevent the buildings igniting. The greenhouse plant is situated in the center of the town, and is surrounded by frame buildings. Mr. Johnson bought the plant last February from Daniel Adist.

In our last issue in the article about Rev. Dr. P. C. Prugh's 96th birth anniversary, the name of the old town hall on Greene street, Xenia, should have read "Fireman's Hall," instead of Farmer's Hall.

WOMEN WORKERS ARE HELPING TO WIN WORLD FREEDOM

Every city in the United States, and Xenia is no exception to the rule, has a class of young women who in ordinary times are so situated, financially, that they are not required to work for a livelihood unless they so desire. In these war times there is no exemption from work and in many cities the young women of this class have recognized the fact and have entered the employment, even though they do not need the money. This is an example that young women of Greene county could well follow. Practically every factory in Xenia is engaged in war work and every one of them is needing more help. Women, who in the past have not found it necessary to work, can help win the war by taking positions with these concerns.

The following editorial from the New York World, gives an idea of what the women of Great Britain have done in this great struggle for world freedom:

Thirteen million American women would be, in proportion, no greater number than the 6,000,000 British women who are engaged in "whole-time work, much of which, in one way or another, is essential to the war."

Not 6 per cent. of these women are in the more advertised services. The haphazard "farmettes," up to this year, were only 14,000; the hospital recruits, 64,000; all the military services together, "Waacs," "Wrens" and the like, but 200,000. Almost a million have been absorbed by finance and commerce. Transportation, hotels, theaters and various branches account for more than half a million.

But the big army—the "Amazons" who, as Harold Beebie writes, "have saved us"—are the 3,000,000 in the heavy, sometimes disfiguring, often dangerous work of metal, chemical and textile specialties, in dock-yards and ordnance details. The "canaries" whose faces are dyed yellow by the fumes where they work upon ammunition are typical of these heroines behind the lines.

Work "so hard that it was thought no woman could perform it" or "so dangerous that no man ever dreamed of asking a woman to do it" is thus taken care of while British men are at the war. In the same spirit, American women, as gradually the opportunity is opened to them, are welcoming similar toil to help win the war.

Mrs. Charles Mahanna and her little son, of Chestnut street, spent the week end with friends in Dayton.
